Abstract

This event will be based on research with a religion different from marriage phenomena that occur in the community, especially the city of Surabaya. The issue of religion to be quite sensitive. For in every religion has a different concept of God. Differences in the concept of God in each religion influenced the perception of a person. Because religion is a set of rules that govern the relationship between man and nature, especially with God. With religion, humans can know the rights and obligations as a creature created by God. In the nuclear family had different religious issues will emerge that one of them is the election of religion for their children. So this research was conducted to answer the research question is How conflict resolution strategy in the nuclear family in the selection of the difference of religion religion in the age of adolescent children?.

Research on the strategy of conflict resolution on the nuclear family in the selection of the difference of religion religion in the age of teenage son is using the conflict theory as the theory of Lewis Coser's theory of socialization, and Peter I. Berger as a supporter of the theory. This research uses qualitative methods with interpretative paradigm. While digging for data, done by using techniques of interviews (in-depth interview). To determine the informant, investigators used a purposive method determined the message. The Data obtained will be elaborated and then analyzed using qualitative research methods and procedures.

Of research results can be inferred that there are families in which there are no conflicts while other families appear to conflict. The conflict that plagued the family especially children, is the conflict of feeling (inward). From the family contained conflict, found a pattern of socialization are used to their children. One of them, there are families that use patterns and other socializing democratic family socialization patterns using authoritarian with each family uses the method didacting to influence the process of socialization of teaching. While the family which there was no conflict, using two patterns of socialization as well as to their children such as socialization patterns and patterns of socialization permissive authoritarian.
