

EDITORIAL

As an effort to enhance the quality of Folia Medica Indonesiana, the editors continuously improve their performance in examining writing appropriateness, language perfectness, the depth of discussion, the generation of correct and keen inferences, as well as the appropriateness of writing methods. This effort is undeniably important since the future challenge in field of scientific journal will increase along with the rising number of readers who have higher keenness in assessing the quality of each published articles. We hope that this effort will receive strong support from all of those who have concern in maintaining the quality of this medical journal.
