(Studi Tentang Konstruksi Sosial Keagamaan Pada Aktivis Dakwah Mahasiswa Universitas Airlangga)

Abstrak :

Research thesis entitled "Student Activity Da'wah Group Tarbiyah Muslim Brotherhood (Studies Social Construction Sites In Da'wah activists Airlangga University Students), aims to see and understand in depth the reality of religious ideology in the process of acceptance as a dialectical process Petter L Berger, and to know how the Muslim Brotherhood movement patterns of thought constructed and established as a reality by the da'wah activists Airlangga University campus.

This thesis research using qualitative methods, in this study, researchers tried to understand holistically from the overall mission of the activists associated with the pattern of behavior in muamalah and religious activist propaganda on a flexible, reflective, and do not take the distance to the subject of research. In this case the researcher acting as participant observation, in addition to these activities for data searched, researchers also conducted interviews, observation or observation, and use of the documents in support of this research.

Researchers found some interesting facts from the informants that all have the same pattern of movement with moments of construction Berger, all of which have gone through the same moments as those in relation to three moments Berger expressed his dialectics, namely Externalization, objectification and internalization. Although the pattern is similar in construction Berger felt by informants, but the characteristics of each of these different informants. The biggest factor for the success of the social construction of individual Berger to make it through the three stages of the moment is the pattern Tarbiyah cadres in itself, in view of how it is structured and neat patterns on offer such propaganda. Regeneration pattern makes many activists who formerly propaganda only object, is now the subject of propaganda.
